A BOLD STEP

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Fairbanks Incident May Have Been Unknown to the Pope.

Commenting editorially on the incident of the pope refusing to receive former Vice President Fairbanks' several days ago because he addressed the Methodist congregation there, the New Century (Catholic) of this city, in a current issue, declares that "this particular affair may be the achievement of some major domo of the Vatican. The pious, peasant pope may have known nothing of it." It is pointed out that more than probably that if the story has real foundation "there are attendant circumstances which will put a different face on it." The comment is also made that "the day will be welcomed when all the diplomats shall be sent out of the Vatican and sentenced to teach catechism to the neglected

Stirred Beyond Proportion.

"These minor incidents," runs the edi torial, "stir people up out of all proportion to their real importance. Our government has dealt very courteously with the Vatican for some years, notably in the Philippine embroglio; and although Mr. Fairbanks is now an unofficial person, there is a feeling that due reciprocity has not been illustrated in the present instance. We know that a like, but rather larger matter, the refusal of the pope to see President Louber of France, started the train of events that led to the severance of French diplomatic relations with the Vatican, and later the separa-

"On the other hand, court etiquette exists all over Europe, and its formulas and requirements are much more exacting, not to say ridiculous, in Berlin, Madrid and Vienna than in Rome, Americans incline to make light of court etiquette, but probably it has its orderly and decorous uses nevertheless. We ourselves would welcome the day when all the diplomats shall be sent out of the Vatican and sentenced to teach catechism to the neglected Italians. But we suppose that while they are there they must earn their wages, and, incidentally, make a blunder now and again. This particular affair may be the achievement some major domo of the Vatican. The "American Catholics will not blame fort Mr. Fairbanks for making the choice he did make. He stood with his co-religionists. The episode should make him quite popular with the four or five million Methodists in the United States, They may now well forgive and forget the cocktail he once served to President Roosevelt."
